TRESH FROM NEW YORK, PER SCHR. MARY

The subscriber begs leave to return his thanks to his fieulty and peril; and all this without ever having the shadow of a reproach cast upon their good name. Of all the millions, I had almost said the uncountel millions, which have passed through their hands, not one dishonest farthing has ever stuck by the way.—

Through times in which the governments of Europe have been shaken to their centre—in which dynasties, whose roots strike back to the Roman Empire, have been driven into exile, the commercial house, of which our friend is a member, (connected as I believe it has sometimes been with the great financial arrangements of the day to a most fearful extent) has stood firm for a hundred years on the rock of honor and probity, beyond reproach and beyond fear.

"Sammy, my boy, what are breaches of trust?" said a father to his smartest boy.

"What a funny question, Pa."

"Can't you answer it, Sammy?" ficulty and peril; and all this without ever having the shadow of a reproach cast upon their good name.

"Sammy, my boy, what are breaches of trust?" said a father to his smartest boy.

"What a funny question, Pa."

"Can't you answer it, Sammy?"

"Yes, pa, but I don't like to."

"What a silly boy—come, sir, out with it?"

"What a silly boy—come, sir, out with it."
"Well, pa, if I must, your Sunday trousers are breeches of trust;" cause you got them on tick."

Two Sharps .- And old man picked up a half a dollar in the street.

Old man, that's mine said a keen looking rascal, 'so hand it over.' Did your's have a hole in it?" asked the old man. 'Yea replied the other smartly,'
'Then its not thine,' mildly replied the old man; thee must learn to be a leetle sharper next time-my boy.

HANDSOME MEN.—If you are ever threatened with a handsome man in the family, just take a clothes pounder, while he is yet in the bud, and batter his head to pumice. From some cause or other handsome men are invariably asses: they cultivate their hair and complexion so much that they have no time to think of their brains. By the time they reach thirty their heads and hands are equally so 1. Asia we say, you wish to find an intelligent and the say.

by this change. What substitute could be proposed with hopes of success, is another question. The Penitentiary system is becoming very generally adopted in other States, although we believe our people did once deeide against a Penitentiary; they might, however, be brought to think differently upon the subject. The Japan Expedition. The New York Herald learns that the long talked of expedition to open the ports of Japan to the commerce of this country, is soon to sail for Jeddo, under the command of Commodore PERRY. It will start on or about the first of next month. It will be composed of the ship-of-the line Vermont, of 3,000 tons, carrying 96 guns and 800 men; the steam frigates Mississippi, of 1,700 tons and 375 men; Susquehannah, 2.500 tons, 350 men; Princeton, 1.200 tons. 190 men: Alleghany, 1,100 tons, 190 men; the sloops-ofwar Saratoga, St. Mary's and Vincennes, of 22 guns and 190 men each; the razee frigate Macedonian, with 22 shell guns and 450 men; the brig-of-war Porpoise, of ten guns; and the store ships Southampton, Lexington, and Talbot, of 4 guns each. In addition to the ships crows, there will be 700 marines, besides others, attached to the expedition, swelling the aggregate number to about 4,000 men, and 350 guns-most of them of heavy calibre, and a large proportion shell guns.

The expedition is to carry out a magnetic telegraph, a locomotive and railway cars, and many other productions of modern civilization that are, no doubt, intended to "astonish the natives." Hope they may succeed. Don't much expect it though. Mississippi.

This letter of Capt. M'Lane's, was considered highy improper by many of his brother officers, several of whom cautioned him against persisting in a charge which would be pronounced unfounded by more than one personally cognizant of the facts of the case. It tion. would seem that these cautions were not taken in good part by M'Lane, whose temper involved him in several difficulties, and among the rest, in one with his commanding officer-Col. Roberts-whom he struck, or struck at, in Washington City. These things led to a Court Martial, which has just terminated. The verdict will not be made public until it receives the signature of Major General Scott.

Capt. M'Lane, in his defence, alludes to the affair of Gen. Pierce, and after having mentioned a letter written by another officer, to a paper in Texas, on the same subject, he says "that the accused now feels that he did Gen. Pierce a great injustice, and deeply grieves that an opportunity of rectifying his mistake did not offer before his motives for doing so could be construed as interested." The Texas letter to which M'Lane alludes, is that of a Lieut. Colonel in the United States Army who was present at the time when the supposed indignity to Gen. Pierce was assumed to have occurred, and who contradicts it in toto. So ends that bubble. A matter of trifling importance at any time, and

Firstly, in his publication with regard to the fishery dispute, a matter then under diplomatic adjustment, and secondly, in writing a private letter to a New York merchant, upon the faith of which many vessels departed for the Lobos Islands with the understanding that they would be borne out in taking cargoes without reference to the harges made by Peru, or any acknowlegment of ber

The Whigs are busy in making a cabinet for the President elect. It is very kind of them to employ their leisure in thus working for the democrate, en ploying in that way their abundant leisure. They were not allowed to make a President, but they will have something to do in the way of selecting the President's advisers—if they can. We do not believe that any man in the country has the remotest idea of the names of the gentlemen who are to form the next capinet. If General Pierce has selected his Secretaries, ect., he will, as he very properly did throughout the campign an other matters keep his own counsel. He is not the man to have his conduct colored or decided by either newspaper paragraphs or personal importunities. There can be the firmest reliance placed on his doing his whole duty to the country in his selesction of official associates and advisers. They will be men who will satisfy all that portion of the country that is likely to be satisfied with anything. That the whigs be warmly and affectionately attached to them by no means expect. It is almost as hard to satisfy the wige as it is for the whige to suisfy the Already, it would seem that Gen. Pierce is bored by the applications of officious office-holders, and we Philadelphia Ledger:

A JUST REBUKE .- General Pierce has already been assailed by politicians in quest of the spoils, who cannot wait till his inauguration to make known their great merits and special claims to his consideration for office under his administration. One of the leaders from this quarter visited him a few days ago, and was about to lay before him a budget of overwhelming testimony in favor of a particular friend, who is a candidate for executive favor, when he was told by the President elect that he was very glad to see him, but that he had made up his mind not to speak on political subjects for at least three months to come. Gen. Pierce is no tyro in public life, and knows what he is about. A modest man himself, obtrusive impudence will find small favor in his eye, nor is there the least chance of his suffering himself to be bored to death as were Gens. Harrison and Taylor.

by any other method which I have found, and it keeps sweet and tender all summer.

Take a barrel, and turn over an old pan or kettle, and burn cobs, (I think the best,) or hard wood, for seven or eight days, keeping water on the head to prevent drying. Make a pickle with eight pounds of malasses. of salt, six ounces saltpetre, two quarts of molasses and three gallons of water, to one thousand pounds... Boil and skim the pickle thus prepared. Then pack your ham in the barrels, and when the pickle is cold. pour it on to the meat, and in four weeks you have excellent ham, very tender, and well smoked. Albany Cultivator.

A CASTOR OIL EPIDEMIC .- On a late trip of one of ur New Orleans steamers, she was crowded with German emigrants. As might be expected, their appetite for fruit and vegetables, after a long sea voyage, was most voracious. At Selma, a short distance be-low the city, the boat received some 20 or 30 sacks of castor beans consigned to Mr. Blow. The appearance of the bean, 'good to the eye,' excited the of Wellington eulogistically, as "the true type of an Anglo Saxton," a Mr. MacElherran comes out in a petite triumphed; a bag was surreptitiously opened, a petite triumphed; a bag was surreptitiously opened, a large pan full extracted, and a huge luncheon of soup natrating, in a style so piquant and peculiar, that prepared.
